Trevor Stratton, Canada
*International Indigenous HIV & AIDS
Community*

Trevor Stratton is a 52-year-old member of the Mississaugas of the New Credit First Nation near Toronto, Canada, with mixed English and Ojibwe heritage. Diagnosed with HIV in 1990, Trevor turned to his community and the indigenous HIV and AIDS movement for support, and became an activist, volunteer and consultant. He is now the Coordinator for the International Indigenous Working Group on HIV & AIDS for its host organization, the Canadian Aboriginal AIDS Network. Trevor is a board member of the Global Network of People living with HIV (GNP+), the President of the board of 2-Spirited People of the 1st Nations in Toronto, and one of two North American delegates in the NGO Delegation on the Programme Coordinating Board of the Joint United Nations Programme on HIV and AIDS (UNAIDS). Trevor was recently installed as the interim Executive Director of the International Indigenous HIV & AIDS Community.
